

Allanson Street News

Transition morning will take place across school on Monday 15th July. This will be a chance for children to meet their new teachers in their new classrooms. A list of class moves and teaching staff will be included on the newsletter next week.

The ice cream van is due on Thursday 18th July for those children who have achieved 96% attendance this school year. Please try not to miss a day of school between now and then!

This Week's Highlights

- Nursery - our children had a visit and a story in Reception meeting their new teacher. Parents - if you didn't attend the transition meeting please ask a member of nursery staff for the information booklet. The children had a fabulous time in New Brighton looking for the fairy houses in the park and playing on the pirate ship on the beach.
- Year one have loved seeing the songbird display go up in the hall this week and have enjoyed showing off all their hard work. The children have also worked hard learning all about multiplication!
- Our 'Sing for Songbirds' exhibition opened on Wednesday This has served as a wonderful celebration of all of the work that the children throughout school have produced in learning about the Indonesian songbirds. We also hope that we have raised awareness of the fact that these beautiful birds are being poached relentlessly simply to be put in cages as status symbols for their new owners. Thank you so much to all of our parents/carers who have visited the exhibition. If you haven't yet managed to pop in, you have one last chance on Monday morning before we start to take it down.

What's Coming Up Next Week (and beyond)?

- Year two have started preparing for their transition to Year three and KS2. We are looking forward to meeting our new teachers and classmates next week in addition to going on our end of year trip to Cineworld to watch Toy Story 4!
- Year 5 are lucky enough to be going on two trips next week! We will be heading to Gulliver's World for our end of year trip on Wednesday, and also to Cineworld on Thursday morning to view the movies that we created and starred in earlier in the year.
- Y4, can parents who have not done so please return the slip for our trip to New Brighton?
- On Thursday evening and Friday morning, Year 6 will be performing their fantastic musical extravaganza. If any parents / carers of Y6 children haven't yet purchased their 2 tickets for each performance, please make sure you do so before the remaining tickets go on general sale on Monday 8th July.
- The Year 6 Football team will be playing in a tournament on Monday-Good Luck to them all.
