

Settings

Settings (where the story takes place) are really important. They can make the reader feel safe or scare them. What settings from stories or films can you think of? List them here:

'Mission Possible 'is set in London and the sacred treasure is hidden on an abandoned riverboat on the Thames (a famous river that runs through London). The author chose the abandoned riverboat at night because they thought that it would be a bit scary.

Collect some setting ideas (I have done a few to get you started):

